Supreme Court decision:

President can't impound water pollution funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled unanimously today that presidents have no power to withhold water pollution control allotments provided to the states by act of Congress.

The Court acted in an appeal brought by New York City and Detroit — one of a series of legal challenges to impoundment of congressionally approved grants by President Richard M. Nixon.

The opinion, dealing with the 1972 federal Water Pollution Act, said there is nothing to warrant such action by chief executive even though Congress might have implied in the legislation that he has such a right.

Georgia went directly to the Supreme Court in 1972 in an effort to overturn all the impoundments ordered by Nixon, but the Court rejected this broad challenge in favor of deciding the matters on a case-by-case basis.

In other actions on its return from two-week recess, the Court:

—Ruled in a Florida case that an accused person is entitled to a hearing before a judge when he is arrested solely at the discretion of a prosecutor.

—Blocked enforcement of Missouri's new abortion law pending appeal of a ruling that it is constitutional in all but one respect.

—Ruled 8 to 1 that minority members of a union have no right to bargain or picket in their own behalf when they believe the union is not properly pushing their cause —Dismissed an appeal challenging the authority of state courts to outlaw "record piracy" in which cheap re-recorded songs are distributed nationally.

—Agreed to decide if Maryland's law aiding private colleges, including those affiliated with churches, violates the Constitution.

The court met without two of its members present, although they participated in the rulings.

Justice Thurgood Marshall, who has been suffering pneumonia, was in Bethesda Naval Hospital and was expected to go home later this week. Justice William O. Douglas, who suffered a stroke New Year's Eve, is progressing satisfactorily at Walter Reed Army Medical Center. No date has been set for his release.

$65,000 mystery plane theft at Chino Airport

West End sheriff's deputies have asked airports throughout the state to help find a "flying" thief and the $65,000 Cessna 210 airplane he stole from Chino Airport sometime Sunday night or Monday morning.

The aircraft theft was reported about 10 a.m. Monday by its owner, Gary DeJager of 6660 Riverside Drive in Chino.

DeJager, an employee of the Dairyland Hay Co. in Chino, told deputies at the airport that he had flown the new 1975 airplane only 53 hours.

DeJager said he returned to the airport Monday morning to check the blue and white airplane and found it missing from its tie-down parking spot near the Cullen Aircraft Co. on Merrill Avenue. DeJager, believing the plane may have been moved to another parking space, said he walked the length and width of the airport, but found nothing.

Cullen Aircraft employees aided DeJager in calling other airports in the area. When no other local airports reported the plane landing, DeJager notified the West End sheriff's station.

DeJager told deputies that the plane had blue upholstered seats. The airplane's license number is listed as N60777, painted on its wings and fuselage.

DeJager said the plane was stolen sometime between the hours of 5 p.m. Sunday and 9 a.m. Monday. There was no one in the Chino Airport control tower during night hours. Other pilots and aircraft employees could not recall if the plane had been flown out of the airport during the evening.

Sheriff's detectives working on the case this morning said it has not been determined how the airplane was started by the thief, as both the cockpit and the ignition can be locked with a key. DeJager locked the aircraft before leaving the airport on Sunday.

Ford expected to veto delay in oil fee hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford indicated today he will veto Congress' efforts to delay his oil import fee increase and GOP congressional leaders told him there was an "even chance" the veto would be sustained.

The administration meanwhile predicted that any effort by Congress to substitute oil allocations for the higher import fees could cost Americans $20,000 jobs.

Ford ate breakfast with GOP congressional leaders in order to discuss an anticipated vote in the Senate Wednesday on a measure to delay for 90 days the import fee increase which the President recently imposed by executive order.

Skiers tossed from lift

WATTSFIELD, Vt. — A chair lift carrying 79 skiers lost cable tension and then tightened violently Monday, tossing six riders from their seats. Four were injured, including one man who was in critical condition.

The victims fell from as high as 30 feet. Riders who were not tossed out waited up to 2½ hours before they were rescued by maintenance men using ropes. Some got safely to the ground sooner.

A spokesman at the Mad River Glen ski resort said an unidentified skier in his teens accidentally caused the mishap when his clothing caught in the chair lift at the point where he was supposed to get off.

When he tried to wrench free, the excessive swing of the chair caused the cable to jump a guide rail. This, in turn, caused the entire lift to stop suddenly.

One man was thrown 30 feet into the air but landed unhurt in a snow bank and simply skied away, according to Beverly Salm of Spring Valley, N.Y., who was on the chair lift at the time. She managed to stay in her seat.

"Once I was evacuated I went down and had lunch and a good stiff drink," said Mrs. Salm. "I'm up here for the week and I'm going to keep right on skiing."

The operator of the lift, Kenneth Quackenbush, said the cable first was pulled off the powerwheel pulley at the top of the lift and then pulled off the powerwheel at the bottom.

The sudden slackening of tension in the line was immediately followed by a violent tightening of the cable, sending skiers and chairs into the air, he said.

Need a $30 billion tax break to halt recession, says Meany

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — AFL-CIO President George Meany says it will take a $30 billion tax break to turn off the recession — and even that amount will not stop the slide toward 10 per cent unemployment.

"Events are overtaking not only the President but the Congress. Things are getting worse every day," he said Monday.

"There has been some progress over on the (Capitol) Hill," he said. He added the House tax cut legislation "doesn't go as far as we had hoped, but it is a tremendous improvement over the President's program."

Meany said it will take much more than a $20 billion tax relief bill to turn back the recession. "I think they will have to go as high as $30 billion."

Meany said he hoped a group of "so-called liberals" do not wreck the tax legislation by inviting a Senate filibuster with an amendment to raise taxes on oil companies. Meany said the issue, tax relief and the oil depletion allowance, should be treated in separate legislation.

Earlier this month, Meany forecast unemployment at 10 per cent. The current rate is 8.2 per cent, or 7.5 million jobless workers, Meany said he intended to stand by that forecast, but added he now viewed it as optimistic.

"People are reaching the end of their 23 weeks of unemployment benefits," Meany said. "They are getting to the point they are no longer consumers. Unemployment is going to cause more unemployment."

Carlsbad girl dies of injuries suffered at hands of kidnaper

CARLSBAD (UPI) — Tammy Suzanne Johnson, 11, who was kidnapped Sunday evening, died Monday from injuries she suffered when her assailant apparently tried to strangle her, police said.

The girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D.J. Johnson, residents of the Ocean Manor Motel, was seized by a man while she was walking with her brother, Dale, 8, and Alex Hoefler, 14, about 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

"I'll kill her if you tell anyone," the companions quoted the assailant as saying.

The girl was found unconscious at 9:15 p.m. two blocks from where she had been grabbed. The discovery was made by Detective Sgt. Robin Hargett, one of the searchers police dispatched after they were notified.

She remained in a coma until she died Monday afternoon. Authorities said whether she had been sexually molested was not determined.

Detective Sgt. Harry Walton said six persons were interrogated and released as the search for the assailant progressed.

The man, described as being about 25 years old and nearly six feet tall, had a dark complexion, dark shoulder length hair and a moustache, officers said.

They said young Hoefler told them the man stepped from behind a tree and before grabbing the girl said, "Don't be afraid, I live across the street."

Move clocks ahead one hour

State returns to daylight saving Sunday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Spring ahead. Fall back." If you follow those simple instructions you'll know what to do Sunday, Feb. 23, when most of the nation returns to Daylight Saving Time.

If you remember turning your clock back an hour just last October, don't worry — the switch this year comes two months earlier than usual.

According to the Transportation Department, clocks should be advanced an hour at 2 a.m. on Feb. 23. That means it will be 3 a.m.

The "last time" change is dictated by the Emergency Year-Round Daylight Saving Time Act passed by Congress in 1973 to conserve power during the energy crisis.

The emergency act put the nation on daylight time between Jan. 6, 1974, and April 27, 1975. But Congress decided to go back to standard time October 27, 1974, until Feb. 23, 1975, after it discovered daylight time saved hardly any energy during the winter.

Arizona, Hawaii, Michigan, Idaho and Indiana are the only states that will differ from the rest of the nation.

Michigan and Idaho voted to exempt the easternmost time zone of their states from the 1973 law. Those areas will stay on standard time until April 27, 1975.

Standard time will continue permanently in 80 counties in Indiana's easternmost time zone. Indianapolis, Fort Wayne and South Bend will not change to Daylight Saving Time — but the rest of the state changes along with the rest of the nation Feb. 23.

Arizona and Hawaii, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and American Samoa do not have to change their clocks because they have never gone on Daylight Saving Time.

The Uniform Time Act of 1966 annually puts the nation — with exception of the five states — on DST on the last Sunday of each April and returns to standard time on the last Sunday of each October.

The nation will return to the 1966 formula when the emergency 1973 legislation expires April 27, 1975.

Rally at Capitol

400 urge Brown to aid education

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Teachers and parents gathered outside the Capitol Monday to warn the Brown Administration that the state would have to financially rescue public schools or there would be wholesale cutbacks in education.

About 400 persons, some carrying colorful balloons, were told that state government was facing overwhelming problems not only in education, but in health and welfare.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., reacting to the demands, later questioned the use of large sums of state money for projects which were of marginal benefit to students. He did not appear before the gathering.

Brown allowed a bill delaying earthquake standards for the Capitol Hughes Stadium to become law without his signature.

The measure was conditional on the local Los Rios Community College District spending nearly $2 million in the future to make improvements on the stadium.

He said on the same day that teachers travel to Sacramento demanding more money for school children and "large sums of educational funds are earmarked for questionable uses."

Bryan Stevens, president of the 143,000-member California Teachers Association, said public schools need an additional $600 million in state funds to keep up with inflation.

In prepared remarks, Stevens said, "Unless the state or local taxpayers come to the rescue it means wholesale cuts in sports, increased class size ... and massive layoffs of teachers and other personnel."

Stevens said inflation has outstripped increases in state and local school support.

Brown's proposed budget for the coming fiscal year calls for a $106 million increase to public schools — kindergarten through 12th grade. It would increase the state's contribution for schools to $2.45 billion.

Marie Obiedo, the new secretary of health and welfare, told the demonstrators on behalf of Brown that education is a top priority but there are overwhelming problems in health and welfare.

Obiedo said he wished he could promise the teachers more money for schools but he added "we must be realistic."

"We're here to tell Governor Brown and the legislature we need more money," said Rita Hodgkins, president of a Sacramento area teachers association.

Assembly Speaker Leo T. McCarthy, Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilson Riles, and Lt. Gov. Mervyn Dymally spoke to the demonstrators.

Northrup loses again on fighter but still hopeful

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Northrup Corp. has not given up hope for sale of its YF17 jet fighter, despite turn-downs, at least temporarily, from the United States and NATO governments.

A Northrup spokesman said Monday that the plane's apparent elimination from consideration by four European nations was a formality and could in time be reversed.

Norway, Holland, Denmark and Belgium decided some time ago to pool their money and buy one aircraft for the air forces of all four nations. The total contract could reach more than $15 billion.

The YF17 had been a candidate, and was also a rival for sale to the U.S. Air Force of the YF16 of General Dynamics Corp.

The Air Force last month chose the YF16, announcing plans to order 650 planes from the Texas firm.

Representatives of the four European air forces met Monday to consider three planes, but the YF17 was not among them.

Northrup said the YF17 was no longer formally under consideration because the consortium's rules require that planes cannot be considered unless they are purchased by the military forces of the nation in which they are manufactured.

The remaining contenders are the YF16, the Swedish Saab Viggen and the French Mirage F1.

Northrup still has hopes for some sales to the U.S. Navy however.

A Northrup spokesman said it "may be weeks or months" before the NATO nations make their decision, and the firm hopes to return to the running

Resident cut by glass

Two youths arrested after shotgun blast hits window

Two juvenile boys were arrested late Saturday night in Pomona and accused of firing a shotgun blast through a window which injured an occupant of the house.

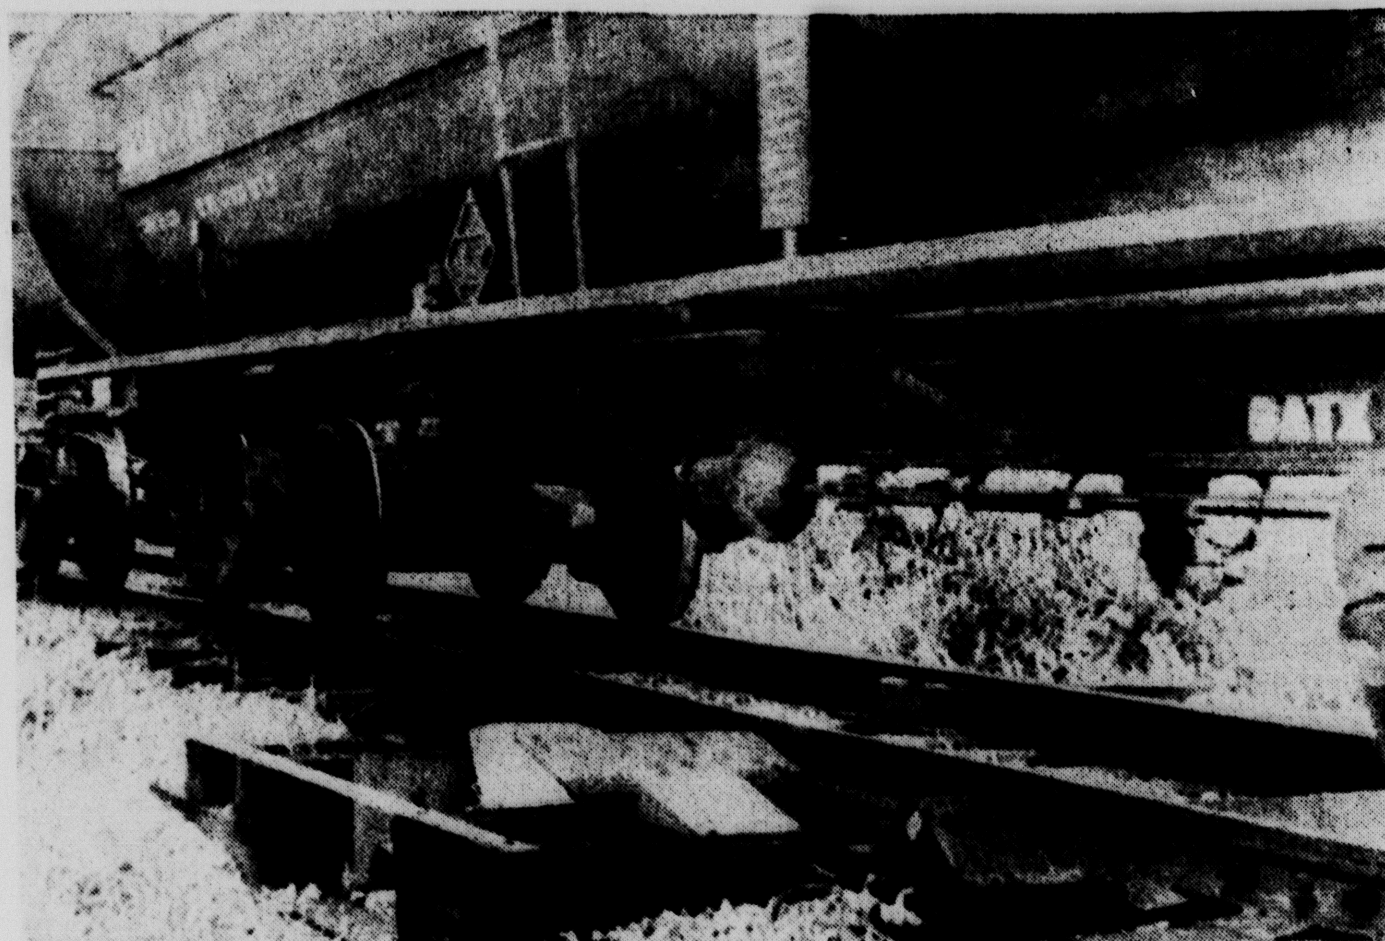

The youths, one 17 and one 16, were booked on suspicion of attempted murder and firing a shot into an occupied dwelling. They were taken to Juvenile Hall. Both are Pomona residents.

The shooting was at 1216 W. Fremont St. shortly before midnight. Police said there had been a fight outside the residence and that the two youths had shown a pistol and shotgun and one had threatened to kill an unidentified youth involved in the fight.

A few minutes later, after police had been there to investigate the fight, the blast was fired through a kitchen window. Flying glass cut Pablo Linn, 51, the occupant, but he did not require medical attention.

Police arrested the suspects later as the result of the description of the car used in the shooting. Both denied involvement in the shooting.

A WATCHFUL EYE

A new detector device, called the 'hotbox', is now being used to head off train wrecks on the Illinois Central Gulf railroad system. Infrared sensors, foreground, installed near tracks can detect high temperatures caused by bearing failure or sticking brakes in rail cars passing over them.

The 'hotbox' detector--one way to head off costly wrecks on rail lines

MONITORING INFO

Computerized information from the 'hotbox' feeds into a central Chicago station. There, railroad engineers monitor it. If trouble shows up, engineers radio train personnel who can then stop the train and inspect for any damage.

INFRARED CAMERA

Each detector costs $50,000 but will save millions in preventing wrecks or catastrophes. A typical installation is the infrared reading camera, center, mounted with shields, right and left. A sensor is installed on both sides of the track. Illinois Central has 19 detectors on its main line and plans to add five more this year. The railroad has 9,600 miles of track.

Last surviving sextuplet home

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — Tiny Jolene Rene Lange, the only survivor of sextuplets born in December, went home from the hospital Monday.

The infant, weighing just under five pounds, took the commotion surrounding the event in stride: she slept through it.

But it was a big day for her mother, Charlotte Lange, 26, who took a fertility drug and bore nine babies who died, and the father, Alvin Lange, 32, an armored truck driver.

"All our hopes and dreams are in her," said Mrs. Lange. "We've had lots of discouraging moments. It hurt quite a lot that we lost all our children. But Jolene makes up for it."

She told doctors, nurses and news reporters at Valley Medical Center that she was "looking forward to some peace and quiet" now that Jolene was going home.

The Langes have turned twice to the fertility drug Pergonal in hopes of having a family.

More belt tightening—Chrysler

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp.'s two top executives are warning of further belt-tightening in the wake of a $73.5 million fourth quarter loss that pushed the No. 3 automaker $52 million in the red for 1974. It was the worst financial performance in the company's 50-year history.

Chrysler Chairman Lynn Townsend and President John Riccardo said "a succession of increasingly difficult problems"—including the early 1974 gasoline shortage, political uncertainty in midsummer, high interest rates, inflation and the Ford administration's attempts to cut consumer spending by urging people to save money—were to blame for the losses.

In the financial statement, the two said further cost reduction programs, as they take effect, will restore profitability "even if today's depressed level of sales should continue." Chrysler has 51,500 of its 114,000 hourly workers on indefinite layoff along with at least 50 per cent of its salaried work force.

Along with cutbacks in Chrysler operations that included a virtual Thanksgiving to New Year's shutdown, they said, several positive economic developments—including declining interest rates, predictions of dwindling inflation and a planned tax cut—could restore profitability to the firm.

Townsend and Riccardo said early results of the company's rebate program—started Jan. 12 as the first effort to stimulate lagging auto sales—have been encouraging. Early February sales topped figures from the same period a year earlier for the first time since 1975 models were introduced. The executives did not indicate whether rebates would be continued.

The fourth quarter and 1974 losses didn't reflect any of the costs Chrysler has incurred in the rebate program it began Jan. 12, the first effort of its kind to stimulate lagging sales.

Industry analysts expect a sharp first quarter loss at all of the auto companies because of the price rebates, which some analysts say will cost at least $150 million just in cash payments to customers before they end Feb. 28. Chrysler executives did not indicate whether the rebates will continue.

Chrysler's sales in 1974 dropped less than 6 per cent, from a record $11.8 billion in 1973 to $11 billion in 1974. Record earnings of $255.4 million in 1973 evaporated into the record $22 million loss. The company's worst previous loss was a $29.7 million red ink performance in 1958.

Bank robbery attempt could be inside job

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Maria Elena Lima Lopez picked up the ringing telephone at the bank where she is assistant manager.

"The bank has been mined with nitroglycerine bombs. They'll explode if you don't walk out with all the 500 and 1,000 peso notes," a voice said Monday.

"In front of the bank, on the second floor of an apartment block is a man with a rifle, pointed at a bottle of nitroglycerine in the bank. He'll fire if you're not out of there within four minutes."

Maria Elena looked out of the window—and on the second floor, she saw the shadow of a gunman.

She filled a bag with $60,000 worth of currency and left by the back door of the Banco de Comercio near downtown Mexico City.

She turned the money over to a man in a nearby department store.

Police stepped in. On the second floor of the apartment block, they found a tailor's dummy, supporting what had looked in a shadow like a rifle.

It was a stick.

They searched the bank. There was no nitroglycerine.

Then they arrested Maria Elena, who told them her story and was sticking to it.

Council studies zoning

Two public hearings are slated at today's meeting of the Upland City Council at 7 p.m. in the council chambers.

Jim Kellner, 1013 W. Holt Blvd., Ontario, is requesting a conditional use permit to establish an automotive service station (Jimmy's Self-Service Gas Station) on a half-acre site at the southwest corner of Mountain Avenue and Ninth Street in an M1 (manufacturing) zone. Kellner has owned the property for 10 years.

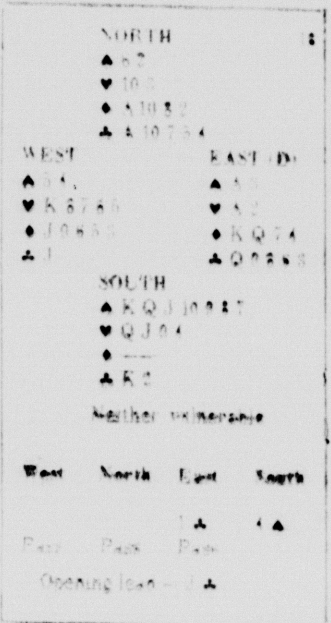

Also to be discussed will be the proposed amendments to the zoning regulations which would provide for an extension of the amortization period for non-conforming billboards, non-appurtenant or other off-premises outdoor advertising structures from seven to 14 years from the effective date of the ordinance which was Feb. 4, 1970.

Bridge

Jettison card to stay afloat

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Jettison is a nautical term that applies to throwing cargo overboard to lighten a sinking ship. In bridge you jettison a winning card to get it out of the way for some valid reason.

We are indebted to George Coffin for today's jettison play. A very careless South wins the club lead with his king and plays a trump. East takes his ace and can beat the contract by leading a second club for his partner to ruff.

A slightly more careful South wins the club in dummy and leads a trump toward his own hand. If East plays low everything comes up roses, but if East hops up with the ace South's king of clubs gets ruffed.

A careful South remembers that opening club bid and worries about a club ruff. Then he rises with dummy's ace of clubs, jettisons his king of clubs on the ace of diamonds and leads dummy's deuce of spades.

Now all the defenders can collect are two hearts and the ace of spades, since South can ruff the second club if it is led.

Smoker quits, puts money in bank--$1,500

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UPI) — Mrs. Clair Manjack started a special bank account when she quit smoking in 1968. There's $1,500 in it now.

It took her 30 years of smoking before she decided to quit and save money.

"I smoked about a carton a week," she said. "At first I put $3 a week in the account and later raised it to $4 after the prices went up. Now I suppose I should raise the deposits again."

Mrs. Manjack's husband, Frank, quit smoking five years before she did and used the savings to play Santa Claus to needy children during the Christmas holidays.

Paving the way

Although cars still dominate the pavement, it was bicycles that gave it to them. Henry Ford was a machinist's apprentice in Detroit when the powerful League of American Wheelmen, one of the nation's first bicycling organizations, was pressing Congress for pavement.

Ask Dr. Brothers

Salvage friendship

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I'm a divorced woman. About four months ago, I fell in love with a man who, I'm sure, fell in love with me too. I have a large and beautiful apartment which I shared with him for two months. We never really ever had a quarrel until about a week ago when we discussed the possibility of marriage. I didn't think I was pressing him but apparently my statements of love were overwhelming to him. I haven't seen him since and I've naturally been very depressed.

I honestly don't know what I did and my pride prevents me from calling him and asking what's wrong. I'm afraid he doesn't love me any more and I can't stand to hear that, if it's true. We had so many things in common and it's almost impossible for me to simply put him out of my mind. —H.B.

Dear H.B.: Put your pride aside and pick up the phone. Silence is never going to help your situation; it can only make it worse for your imagination may begin to work overtime and create problems that have no basis in fact.

For all you know, your friend may be ill and may have long forgotten the argument you had.

Many arguments result in misunderstandings that become more distorted and out of focus as time passes unless they are faced once again in different circumstances. Communication is essential if you're going to solve this problem.

Sometimes men and women who have been hurt in one unsuccessful marriage or relationship are afraid of becoming too involved in another. It is possible that you "overwhelmed" your friend, and if you did, it's time to try to get things back in focus.

Some people who have been hurt in a former marriage won't allow themselves to love again. Most, however, are caught in the middle. They want to love and be loved and yet a discussion of their feelings may set them in a panic as they're pulled in two directions within themselves. Some men and women limit themselves to superficial relationships in order to avoid this conflict. When they do this, they rob themselves of fulfillment and growth, but they may be so frightened of their feelings that they become filled with anxiety whenever they're faced with love.

Morton Hunt pointed out in "The World of the Formerly Married" (McGraw-Hill) that the average man who was once burned in love hungers for love because he knows it is a healing experience, the most positive of all proofs that he is a worthy human being. At the same time, however, he is apt to be inordinately fearful of trusting those feelings that so betrayed him in the past and proved so unreliable. Not only does he distrust his own feelings, he may distrust the feelings of anyone who cares for him, for he built his life upon them once, only to find them not a rock, but sand.

Since you and this man had such a rewarding relationship, and since you had so much in common, it is worth a great deal of effort and risk on your part to try to salvage this friendship. If you are going to be hurt, it's better to know now. Unless you're willing to risk part of yourself now, you may remain in ignorance about the real cause of your break with him. By tossing your pride to the winds, you may be able to save your relationship.

Firemen examine the charred wall of a Pomona home which was damaged by fire this morning. The occupants, Mr. and Mrs. Herold Binkley, jumped to safety from a second story window.

Man, wife leap from 2nd floor to flee home fire

A Pomona couple jumped to safety from a second-story window this morning when their home caught fire. Damage was estimated at $8,000 to the two-story frame house at 674 E. Alvarado St., owned by Herald Binkley.

According to Fire Chief John Fowlkes, the fire was caused by an electrical short in a lamp which had been left on in the living room.

Binkley told firemen that he was awakened at about 3:30 a.m. by the sound of cracking glass. He woke his wife and the two jumped to safety from a second-story window. They were not injured.

Arrest 1 man, 3 juveniles in assault on son and his dad

A 19-year-old Pomonan was arrested last Monday afternoon and charged with assault with a deadly weapon against a young man who said he was jumped by the suspect and three others in an alley behind his home.

Lee Jerome James Jr., 1277 Raywood Ave., was held by police, but three other suspects, all juveniles, were released to their parents.

Victim Daniel H. Allen, 20, 1334 San Bernardino Ave., said a young man was teasing his dog in the backyard, but left when he told him to leave the dog alone. A few minutes later, Allen said, the same man returned and started bothering the dog again.

Allen said that when he told him to stop, he was challenged to a fight, but when he accepted the challenge he was attacked by the man and the others he said had been hiding in a garage. Allen's father, Austin Allen, 53, also was attacked when he tried to help, Allen said.

The victim said he was struck with an unusual weapon used in martial arts in addition to being hit with a trash can and a broom stick, before the four fled.

Officers later stopped the suspects at Mountain Avenue north of the San Bernardino and reported being told that it had been a "fair fight" and that no weapons had been used against Allen.

Neither victim required medical treatment.

Arrested after two slayings Cyclists face hearing on four charges

The preliminary hearing of four alleged motorcycle gang members on two murder charges, one charge of attempted murder and a kidnapping charge has been scheduled for Feb. 25 in Pomona Municipal Court.

The four are Donald Kelson, 25, Ontario; Gregory White, 20, Rowland Heights; Charles Evans, 34, Lawndale; and David Dupres, 19, Torrance. They were identified by sheriff's homicide detectives as members of the Vagos Motorcycle Club, an East San Gabriel Valley group.

The four were arrested in connection with the slaying of Ontarioan Adelbert Hempy, 34, the kidnapping and slaying of Pomonan Michael O'Hara, 30, and the wounding of Antaleon Sanchez, 29, of Walnut.

Hempy and Sanchez were shot at the Custom Design Fabricators Motorcycle Shop in Industry Feb. 5. O'Hara was taken from the shop, shot to death and dumped out in Chino.

Investigators said later they believe the incident was the result of motorcycle gang rivalries, but several bikers said they believe Hempy's slaying was a mistake. They said he was known as a peacemaker.

Bonita's tax override at board meet

Bonita school district board members will outline to taxpayers tonight what personnel and curriculum cuts will be made if a 61-cent tax override fails March 4.

Supt. James Johnson said the district will end this school year with reserves cut to $200,000. "We simply have run out of money," he said commenting on the deficit of $316,000 in the current school budget.

Asst. Supt. James Overline said supply costs have risen 20 to 250 per cent this year with paper — one of the district largest expenditures—up 100 per cent.

Valley man rescued after fall in canyon; arm broken

An Alta Loma hiker, injured in a 75-foot fall down a rocky slope near the second falls in Cucamonga Canyon, was brought to safety Monday afternoon by the West End Search and Rescue Team and members of the Alta Loma Fire Department.

Keith E. Saddlemire of 6870 Topaz St., Alta Loma, was listed in good condition this morning with a broken arm and other injuries at San Antonio Community Hospital.

Saddlemire, according to deputies, was hiking with a friend in the falls area when he started to climb up a steep slope. Saddlemire apparently lost his balance and fell 75 feet to the bottom of the canyon.

Saddlemire's hiking companion walked out and reported the accident to Alta Loma firemen. A team of West

Valley couple hurt in car-truck crash

An Ontario couple was injured Monday when their car collided with a truck-trailer on Grove Avenue near Edison Avenue, Chino.

Paul McCormick, 52, of 1655 E. Harvard St., and his wife, Thelma, 52, were both admitted to Chino General Hospital. The husband is listed in guarded condition and the wife in satisfactory condition.

The car, driven by McCormick, had stopped on Edison and was turning onto Grove when the car collided with the truck which was traveling west on Edison, said highway patrolmen.

John Meraz, 31, of La Mirada, the truck driver, escaped serious injury.

End sheriff's deputies on a search and rescue exercise in the area was notified. Within 30 minutes firemen and deputies had reached Saddlemire and brought him out by stretcher.

UP AND OVER

This car went out of control and came to rest on the center divider of the San Bernardino Freeway east of Azusa Ave., in West Covina this morning. The driver was identified as Hilda Phillips of Ontario. She was taken to Queen of the Valley Hospital in West Covina where she was treated for back pains. She was reported in satisfactory condition. The accident backed up eastbound traffic for about two miles while the wreckage was removed.

Council cancels housing density special election

By PEGGY GONZALES
P-B Staff Writer

Walnut City Council voted unanimously today to call off a referendum election during an emotional special meeting.

Even though he voted against the election, Councilman William Cotton charged after the meeting that the council decision "was a victory for a developer with money."

The referendum, which had been set for April 1, concerned increased density granted La Solana Corp.

Today's decision is final except for the possibility of a court injunction. Citizens had only 50 days in which to appeal the council's decision on the zone change made Oct. 23, 1974.

Single family homes are being constructed by La Solana, and some already have been completed and sold on 40 acres north of La Puente Road between Lemon Avenue and Pierre Road.

La Solana was granted an increase in density for an additional 40 acres north of the tract already in construction.

After councilmen approved a change in zoning from lots of 15,000 square feet minimum to 8,500 square feet, petitions were presented asking for the referendum.

La Solana claimed some of the more than 300 signatures on the petition were invalid. The corporation filed suit on that basis.

Last month the City Council voted 3-2 against sending City Atty. Samuel Siegel to court to represent the city in the legal action.

Dissenting voters were cast by Cotton and Councilman Robert Lovemark.

In the council meeting this morning Cotton said he had changed his vote because an attorney had advised him petitions may not be in compliance with the law because of "technicalities I don't understand."

Lovemark replied that the "insufficiencies" in the petitions didn't come out in the beginning.

He said it was found that the license of a notary who had signed a petition affidavit had expired.

Cotton said later that when he and Lovemark consulted an attorney, Bill Sorensen, they learned that a petition signer had to write his name, not only in the presence of the circulator, but had to be observed doing so.

Cotton claimed that "quite a few people were being called to court by La Solana" on how the petition was circulated.

He said he had changed his vote because he did not want people "hassled in court" and because he did not want city funds spent needlessly.

La Solana claimed that signatures on the petition violate a law passed July 1, 1974, requiring affidavits that referendum circulators personally observe signatures being made.

The firm also charged that minors circulated some of the petitions, according to Leon Biard, sales manager for the development company.

One of the points brought up in the council meeting was that the city might still be subject to a request for an injunction requiring that the referendum be held.

The city attorney replied to a question in that regard by saying anyone might request an injunction against the city at any time under varying circumstances.

Closed hearing held for three linked to killing

A closed preliminary hearing for three men accused of shooting an Ontario man to death in September near the San Bernardino County dump in east Ontario is underway in West Valley Municipal Court.

The hearing is for Thomas Bradley Telford, Sr., 31, of 918 E. Holt Blvd., Ontario; Samuel Lorie Guardalibene, 60, of 312 S. Second St., Upland; and Ronald Lawrence Marshall, 28, of 1191 E. Holt Blvd., Ontario. It has been closed to newsmen and spectators since Thursday.

Telford, Marshall and Guardalibene were arrested Jan. 21 by Ontario police after the body of a man identified as Joseph Allen Gomez, 27, of Ontario, was found wrapped in canvas under some bushes and debris off of Patton Road east of Milliken Avenue in Riverside County. Gomez had been shot once in the head.

An investigation by Riverside sheriff's deputies was turned over to Ontario police after officers learned that Gomez was actually slain in September of last year near the county dump in Ontario.

It was Telford who led deputies and police to Gomez's badly decomposed body on Jan. 18.

Officers investigating the case said that the motive for the slaying may have been sexually oriented.

Attorney John Moore, defending Marshall, and attorney William F. Batchelor, defending Telford, joined in a motion to hold the preliminary hearing closed in the courtroom of Judge William Pitt Hyde. The motion was granted.

Batchelor, outside the courtroom, said the hearing may continue through Wednesday. The hearing will determine if there is enough circumstantial and material evidence to hold the three men over for trial in Superior Court on charges of murder.

Y fund drive reaches 30% of campaign goal

The Pomona Valley YMCA reported that it has achieved about 30 per cent of its membership goal during the current fund-raising drive.

The campaign, which will continue through the end of the month, has an overall goal of $97,000 in memberships.

Through the first week of the drive, approximately $25,000 in memberships had been received.

The YMCA's Claremont branch reported reaching 21 per cent of its $15,000 goal, Pomona Central receiving 24 per cent of its $40,000 goal, San Dimas-La Verne receiving 20 per cent of its $29,000 goal, and Metropolitan receiving 40 per cent of its $21,000 goal.

Two types of memberships, participating and sustaining, are available during the drive. Participating memberships are for individuals who would like to be active members of the YMCA. Sustaining memberships are for individuals who would like to support the YMCA's overall program but do not plan to actively participate themselves.

City asked to leave Roynon play site

The La Verne City Council tonight will deal with a proposal that it abandon the Roynon School as an adult baseball area.

The council meets at 7:30 p.m.

Mary Wooten heads women's center at Chaffey College

Mary Wooten of Upland has been named coordinator of the Women's Center at Chaffey College in Alta Loma, opened under a state Vocational Education grant to help meet the special needs of women.

Miss Wooten, who returned to college in 1972 after a 10-year absence, was in her junior year at Cal Poly Pomona when she was selected for this position. She is a behavioral sciences major.

She recently was appointed to the San Bernardino County Commission on the Status of Women and is a member of the National Organization of Women (NOW) of Pomona Valley.

The Women's Center is in Room 46A of the Campus Center East. It is open mornings weekdays. The telephone number is 967-1737, Ext. 371.

Afternoons, Miss Wooten spends out in communities in the district.

"Our purpose," she explained, "is to encourage women to attend college. We want to encourage women to take courses to help them better understand themselves, their children and their families, to develop job skills, and to do things they've always wanted to do but never had the time or the courage."

"The center can make it possible for women to attend college by helping find the necessary resources, child care, financial aid, part-time employment, transportation and health care."

There is no age limit on women who may be helped through the center. Miss Wooten said there are plans to reach out into the high schools to serve.

"Perhaps we can be a vehicle to make high schools more aware of the needs of women, what they need to be prepared for their changing roles in society," said Miss Wooten.

Driver dies in crash; heart attack suspected

A Glendale motorist may have suffered a fatal heart attack Monday prior to his car hitting a fence and guard rail on the Pomona Freeway, said highway patrolmen.

Almon LeRoy Pickard, 71, was declared dead on arrival at the Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

He had been driving west on the freeway in an outside lane near the Orange Freeway in Diamond Bar when the car suddenly went out of control and crashed through the fence and hit the guard rail on the other side, said officers.

His wife, Grace, 63, a passenger in the car, escaped without serious injury.

The driver had a past history of heart problems and had played 18 holes of golf prior to the accident, said investigators.

Opinion

Caught with our hyperbole down

As long as we seem to be dreaming up new ways to enlarge the scope of government, we might very well consider establishing something called the Bureau of Hyperbole Management.

A hyperbole, (with accent on the second syllable), is, according to Webster, "extravagant exaggeration by which something is represented as much greater or less, better or worse, or as involving a greater intensity, than in reality, or beyond possibility . . . a statement exaggerated fancifully through excitement, or for effect."

It might be added that these days it is often an exaggeration the true facts about which seldom catch up with its effect upon the public.

A prime example is the allegation enshrined in a report last year by the Senate's Select Committee on Human Nutrition and Needs that a third of the poor people in America had been reduced to eating pet foods.

Where this claim originally came from and what evidence it was based on is not quite clear. Suffice to say that many people have accepted it as gospel.

Yet neither the Food and Drug Administration nor the Pet Food Institute has been able to verify that any poor people, let alone many, are resorting to pet food diets.

So asserts Dr. Robert H. Wilbur of the Institute, writing in a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Assn. Rather than people being driven to buy pet foods because they can't afford other foods, he says, sales of canned dog food have actually fallen over the past year. (Maybe they're eating cat food.)

A similarly sensational horror story was contained in a news release sent out in December by the Consumer Product Safety Commission. Of some 5.5 million household and property fires occurring in one year, it said, 196,000 of them were caused by defective television sets.

"Highly exaggerated and misleading," cries the Electronics Industries Assn., after investigating the claim.

They would seem to have a case. The commission's finding was based on data from a survey of 33,000 homes sponsored by it and the National Bureau of Standards. The total of 196,000 defective television sets was extrapolated from 89 "fire incidents" reported by householders — 89 out of 33,000 — in which a television set was claimed to be the ignition source.

At least 61 of these 89 incidents involved reports only that the TV receiver smoked. None of the 89 incidents was claimed to have caused injury to any person or damage to anything except the receiver itself.

It is inherent with high-voltage components, says the Electronics Industries Assn., that they may produce smoke or cracking or arcing or other symptoms if they fail, which may be mistaken as evidence of an internal "fire."

Such failures are by no means fires or ignition sources but merely the built-in fail-safe performance of certain parts, alerting the owner that replacement and servicing are necessary.

The highest previous figure of TV-related fires claimed by the safety commission was 10,000 yearly, a figure the television makers say was also arrived at by dubious methods. But even double it, triple it or quadruple it and it is still a long way from 196,000.

Unfortunately, millions of Americans who read the headlines were convinced that not only are television sets highly dangerous things to have around but that it was one more proof that American industry is committed to making a buck at any cost.

And this is the most dangerous hyperbole of all.

More oil delay

One of the vital sections of President Ford's program for meeting the energy crisis is the acceleration of offshore oil production.

Although there are environmental concerns involved, the general trend in thinking favors this move. A tremendous amount of research into drilling methods and controls has eased many of the fears of pollution, certainly in view of the nation's critical need for new petroleum sources.

According to reports from Washington, however, new barricades are being raised against any such move . . . now . . . by governors of states along our eastern and western coastlines.

Let's wait and study, they say.

To assure the delay, they are lobbying for a law that would slow down offshore leasing by the ponderous process of creating a Federal Exploration Authority. The FEA, it is indicated, would permit leasing only after oil has been found.

The new agency, of course, would have to make studies and plow through all the other bureaucratic procedures, which, it is said in defense of the delay, would provide time for coastal states to study and plan for whatever impact the offshore drilling might have on whatever it is they feel is locally sacrosanct.

As for oil as soon as possible, go play in some other front yard.

Sell-out of Canal Zone claimed

In Panama City on Feb. 7, 1974, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger signed an agreement in principle to give up United States sovereignty over the Panama Canal and to surrender it to the military dictatorship of General Omar Torrijos. It is expected that a proposed treaty aimed at complete surrender of American sovereignty over the Canal will be completed by April.

There have been attempts in the past to remove the Panama Canal from U.S. control. After World War II, Alger Hiss tried to turn the Canal over to the United Nations, but he was prevented from doing so by Ambassador Spruille Braden. In 1960 President Eisenhower permitted the flying of the Panama flag in the U.S. Canal Zone; this time

Congress passed a resolution condemning his action by a vote of 382 to 11.

In 1964 a mob of 3,500 (many of them were members of the Marxist Student Federation from the Institute Nacional) swarmed into the Zone. When the violence was finally put down by General O'Meara, four Americans and 18 Panamanians were dead, scores more were wounded, and property damage in the Zone had reached $200 million.

It should be remembered that the radicals had no legitimate claim to the Canal whatever. The Canal is the property of the United States. It was never leased but was purchased outright. When the Hay-Bunau-Varilla Treaty was signed, we paid $10 million for the 553 square miles that makes up the ten mile wide Canal Zone. The annuity now amounts to $1,930,000.

The Panama Canal is vital to our national defense (we have spent $3 billion for defense installations in the Zone) and under no circumstances should it be allowed to fall into Communist hands. However, unless the American people bring pressure to bear upon their elected representatives to defeat the Kissinger sell-out of American interests in Panama — the sell-out is certain to occur. The Communists will then have chalked up another major advance with the help of apathy on the part of our fellow citizens. — Dee Zahner, Arcadia.

Sen. Jackson: DEA probe to proceed

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department has been accused of using Watergate tactics to kill a Senate investigation of the Drug Enforcement Administration.

In a blistering letter to Atty. Gen. Edward Levi, Senate Investigations Chairman Henry Jackson, D-Wash., has charged that his probe is being obstructed by Justice Department officials using "practices which I had hoped had been eradicated once and for all from the American political scene."

The officials not only tried "to bar Subcommittee Counsel from reviewing pertinent files," the senator charged, but also "are compiling a dossier on one of the investigators working on the case."

Jackson called this "an obvious attempt, to discredit (the investigator) and the Subcommittee and deflate this investigation."

Last month, we reported the DEA's top command has become virtually paralyzed by dissension. The top narcotics officials had been so busy investigating one another, we wrote, that they had little time to cope with dope smugglers.

Narcotics chief John Bartels had complained privately, we wrote, that his underlings have used investigations to blackmail one another. We described how Bartels is struggling to unite four feuding narcotics agencies under one roof.

Senator Jackson immediately ordered his investigators to check into our charges. The Justice Department tried to head them off, however, by going behind their backs to Senate Judiciary Chairman James Eastland, D-Miss., and Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Neb., the ranking Republican.

We have established that Deputy Atty. Gen. Larry Silberman and Justice official James Hutchinson secretly urged the two senators to hold a separate, whitewash probe of DEA.

Hutchinson also confirmed to us that he had raised questions about the conduct of committee lawyer Keith Adkinson and investigator William Gallinaro. But Hutchinson denied Jackson's charge that the Justice Department is collecting information on Gallinaro.

Our sources supporting Jackson, say Justice Department officials have been reviewing their files for information that could be used to embarrass Gallinaro.

But these tactics, apparently, have backfired. Declared Jackson: "The desperate nature of (your) actions only intensifies my desire to make a sweeping examination of the Drug Enforcement Administration. I have, therefore, directed staff to commit all necessary personnel and resources to this investigation."

OPIMUM SUBSIDY: The United States may have to launder millions of dollars through the United Nations to subsidize Turkish opium farmers.

The Turks are demanding financial aid to refine opium by the expensive straw process, which would help to control illicit heroin trafficking.

They expect the United Nations to put up the money, thereby helping to bail out their poppy farmers. And the United Nations, of course, expects the United States to foot the bill.

Under a 1972 agreement, the United States paid Turkey $35.7 million to ban opium production. But last June, the Turks announced that, because of economic hardship, they would resume opium cultivation.

Now it looks as if the United States will have to continue the subsidy, laundering it through the United Nations, in order to get Turkey to use the safer straw refining process.

A United Nations mission, headed by Sir Harry Greenfield, chairman of the International Narcotics Control Board, has just visited Turkey to persuade the government to control the new opium production.

The progress of these backstage negotiations has been reported to Washington by American Ambassador William Macomber in a confidential cable.

Turks apparently expected current Greenfield mission to come with the authority to agree on compensation figure," the cable declares bluntly. "And when they learned Sir Harry did not have such authority, the Turks declined to discuss basis on which their compensation proposal had been calculated until UN agreed to provide money."

With the Turks, in other words, it's not paid, a new tide of heroin can be expected to flood the back streets of America.

Footnote: The confidential cable also quotes Greenfield as reporting that the Turks "appear to have sufficient manpower and resources to mount an effective control program" but "have not yet taken the necessary steps to insure coordination of control efforts" by different police agencies.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: While Washington is asking federal agencies to cut back their spending to boot, the Navy is laying out $31,400 to buy de luxe furnishings, pictures and lighting into the admiral's flag cabin aboard the carrier Nimitz. An irreplaceable landscape of Mexico by painter Thomas Moran has been stolen from the National Collection of Fine Arts here. The museum has called in the FBI as part of its search for the $25,000 masterpiece.

Facts are facts, man! We might as well admit it. Females are able to learn faster than males. In fact, they're so adept at acquiring knowledge that at Cal State Los Angeles, they figure that a one day course is all it takes to teach the gals the fine points of "Female Self-Defense." — But then, why not? From the cradle to the grave it has always been thus. Why, our education experts are now even claiming that girls can be toilet-trained a year earlier than boys.

Nixon's triumph over Navy brass

Everyone agreed that the buildings were an eyesore blighting the landscape between the Washington Monument and Lincoln Memorial. Everyone, that is, except the Navy brass. Yet the structures, most of them ugly prefabricated jobs, survived as monuments to inertia, the great god of federal bureaucracy.

They were first built in 1918, under orders from then Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin Roosevelt, as "temporary" department quarters. Over the decades, Chief Executives, conservationists, editorialists and just plain tourists passing through town had denounced them as architectural monstrosities.

Nevertheless, they stood, impregnable to all criticism. Until one August day in 1969, when a President still fresh on the job looked down at the Federal City from his Marine One helicopter.

"Are those old buildings still there?" Richard Nixon asked. "I was stationed there during the war for a while. Look at the way they louse up the Mall — why are they still up?"

An aide gave the reason. "Nobody," said John Ehrlichman, "ever said to pull 'em down."

"Well, I'm telling you," Nixon directed Ehrlichman, "knock 'em down."

Thus commenced the Battle of the Temples. And if Richard Nixon is never credited with any other achievement by his detractors, let no one demean his victory over the Navy brass in that bureaucratic skirmish. It wasn't easy, not even for the Leader of the Free World.

Like the multitude of "emergency" federal programs which acquire tenure, then permanence, through the blessings of inertia, the Navy's "temples" weren't to be cleared away by mere executive fiat. Only many presidential proddings and high level memoranda later was Nixon's directive to be taken seriously.

The temples had survived, after all, for 51 years. Generations of Presidents, editors, tourists who hadn't liked them had come and gone. Even that perennial bane of battleship bureaucracy, Rear Adm. Hyman Rickover, whose offices were in the "temples," had come to believe that if God ever intended the United States Navy headquarters to be ensconced other than between the Monument and the Memorial, He would have located them elsewhere.

At first, Ehrlichman's word from the President was simply ignored. Then came the official reply: the area couldn't possibly be cleared until 1975.

But Nixon didn't waver, and there followed a request for a formal presentation at the White House so that Navy "experts" could persuade the President that he was doing grievous injury to the national defense effort by persisting in his radical demand.

And more: so-subtle lobbying by admirals as well as more-so-subtle political pressure. A story was leaked to the press that if the "temples" were destroyed and the admirals' offices moved across the Potomac, the callous Nixon White House might put several hundred District of Columbia black Navy employees out of work.

Still Nixon didn't waver. Perhaps some anti-Nixon psycho-historian might argue that it was simply a case of the onetime Navy lieutenant getting even with higher-grade officers he resented during World War Two. But whatever the reason, the President of the United States kept saying, "Knock 'em down."

So it was that the last Navy building on the Mall came tumbling, in late 1970.

"An elephant gun should not be used to kill a rabbit," writes William Safire, "but on some matters affecting entrenched bureaucratic elephants, only elephant guns will do."

The Battle of the Temples is one of several score tales about the will and wiles of Richard Nixon that Safire includes in the new book, "Before the Fall: An Inside View of the Pre-Watergate White House."

"Before the Fall" is a fascinating study of the vagaries of power, written by the former White House speechwriter who, in 1970, gave Spiro Agnew the immortal phrase, "mattering nabobs of negativism."

That crime, one of creative draftsmanship, is not easily forgiven. But with this book, Safire may at last have managed a degree of literary penance.

Turtle meat beats beef in many respects

You can get 800 pounds of beef off on acre of land. You can get 200,000 pounds of green sea turtle meat out of an acre of salt water five feet deep. That turtle meat is a lot better than beef. No much fat. Hardly any cholesterol. Low in calories. Tastes great, too. We're farming the wrong acre, sir.

Item 14B in our Love and War man's file of romantic quotations by Honore de Balzac reads: "It is as absurd to say that a man can't love one woman all the time as it is to say that a violinist needs several violins to play the same piece of music."

Q. "WASN'T it a songwriter who coined the phrase 'makin' whoopee'?"

A. No, contrary to popular belief, the late columnist Walter Winchell originated that one.

A STORE in San Angelo, Texas, was burglarized sometime back. Friends advised the owner to lock up a couple of watch dogs in his place at night. He decided against that. Instead, just before he closes shop now, he turns loose inside a batch of rattlesnakes. A "Beware" sign on the front door reports the situation. He cages them again every morning.

MAFIA

Recently reported that "mafia" came from the Arabic word "maahfil" meaning "union." That's wrong, say clients. French soldiers occupied Sicily in the 13th century, oppressively. When a drunken French sergeant raped a young Sicilian girl in the shadow of a church, thousands of enraged Sicilians took up the shout: "Morte Alla Francia Italia Anela." It meant: "Death To The French Is Italy's Cry." And the word "mafia" was formed of the first letter of each Italian word in that tragic slogan.

THERE ARE more statues nationwide of one certain American woman than of any other. Can you name her? Say Sacajawea.

Manure is a word from the Old French, literally meaning "handwork," and was applied to tillage by manual labor and, later, to the dressing applied to the land.

Evidence of a 'secret life' should be destroyed before it's too late

Dear Ann Landers: "It's too late for us, especially for my mother. She already has had a nervous breakdown, but I hope this letter will be published and perhaps it might spare others the grief we are now suffering."

Dad passed away last month. He was a great person, successful in everything he did, highly respected in the community. My mother and we kids worshipped him.

The day before the funeral we were going through Dad's personal belongings and found a metal box. It was locked and we had to pry it open. We found photographs that I will never forget as long as I live. There is no question they were taken during the last few years of his life, perhaps months.

Dad had posed nude with several other men and women. There were even pictures of him involved in the sex act. We didn't know any of the people in the photographs. It was apparent he had a secret life we knew nothing about.

If any person who reads your column has such damning evidence "hidden away," please, for God's sake, get rid of it. You never know when your time will come. It could be tomorrow. —Scarred Forever

Dear Friend: If your mother has had a nervous breakdown she is, I assume, under the care of a psychiatrist. He will explain to her that your father was a sick man — very sick. His ability to lead two completely different lives is a symptom of a severe personality disorder.

When your mother and you children accept this fact the hurt will be greatly diminished. You will then feel compassion for your father than disgust and betrayal. I hope it happens soon.

Dear Ann Landers: Do tell the woman who complained about her husband because he couldn't remember to put the toilet seat down that she doesn't have much of a problem. Honest she doesn't.

She should have MINE. The jerk I'm married to is too lazy to lift the seat in the first place. Now THAT'S a problem. —Busier Than I Ought To Be

Dear Busier: One of the comforting aspects of this column is that people don't realize how well off they are until they read what somebody else has to put up with. Thanks for writing, dear.

Dear Ann Landers: No big deal, but the problem has caused so much trouble we've agreed to dump it on Ann Landers. Here it is:

Situation: Out-of-town bowling tournaments. Team members with no-west car takes the whole bunch on the trips.

How should the expenses be divided? I say the cost of the gas and oil should be divided among the passengers, excluding the owner of the car. After all, he is furnishing the vehicle on which he must pay insurance, not to mention the wear and tear on the tires, etc. What do you say, Ann? —I Want Justice In Omaha

Dear Just: In my opinion, the party who furnishes the car is making the greatest contribution and should not be expected to chip in for gas and oil.

CONFIDENTIAL To In a Crisis: The Chinese word for "crisis" is divided into two characters. One means danger, the other means opportunity. Recognize the dangers involved in the existing situation but don't overlook the opportunity to change your life-style for something far more productive and rewarding.

RATTLES & STRAWS

No consternation in hibernation

By JOSEPH H. FIRMEN

Next to not waking up at all, practically anything beats waking up on a bleak grey morning with cold rain slashing at the windows and the bedroom temperature standing at a neat 33 degrees.

Your wife has pulled all the covers around her; the dog is scratching to be let out; the guestroom ceiling is leaking, and you know for sure the battery in your car is dead. The fact that you are coming down with a severe head cold does not add to your enjoyment of the morning.

You know what a bear does? He sleeps all winter, how does that grab you? When the air begins to nip and snow to swirl down, he finds a cozy cave, curls up in his bearskin coat, and goes to sleep until springtime. And we call them dumb animals!

How'd you like to wake up on that chilly, rainy morning, cock a sleepy eye at that dripping window, turn off the alarm clock and go to sleep for another couple of months? Man, that's living!

Actually it's called hibernation, meaning winter sleep, from the Latin hibernus, winter. Sensible animals of field and forest, whether they know Latin or not, know enough to head for a snug burrow and snore away the winter months.

The reason they are able to sleep for a few months without eating is that during the summer and fall they build up a lot of fat which sustains them through the long winter. If excess poundage is all that's required, I could sleep till the All-Star break.

Another attraction of hibernation is that during the winter all the fat melts away and you awaken from your deep dream of peace slender and sveite.

You don't have to do pushups; you don't have to jog; you don't have to go on the wagon — the too, too solid flesh just dwindles away. You don't have to go to the YMCA once all winter!

Sleeping through the long winter months would have myriad other advantages. No more 6 o'clock news and I Love Lucy and the Lakers. No more changing tires in the rain, picking the kids up after school, putting pans under leaky roofs, arguing with highway patrolmen over speed limits, visiting the credit union, going to the dentist, entertaining visiting in-laws. You'd miss three months of recession and three months of pro basketball playoffs. Put your little head on the pillow when the winter winds begin to howl and don't open your eyes until all the windows are standing open, the scent of flowers waits in on the warm breeze, and the voice of the lawnmower is heard in the land.

And you're waking up 30 pounds lighter!

'Tis, as Shakespeare sagely observed, a consummation devoutly to be wished.

DOCTOR COMMENTS

Losing weight is a simple matter

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What causes people to lose weight? I'm 68, five feet tall and weigh 101 pounds. I have lost 25 pounds in the last two years. I'm taking two Dilantin capsules daily for arteriosclerosis. My blood pressure is normal and my blood sugar is normal. Why have I lost weight?

DEAR READER — Weight loss is a simple balance between calories in and calories used by your body. The most common cause for weight loss is a decreased intake of calories, either from not eating as much food or eating food that contains fewer calories.

Beyond that you can begin with things that prevent food from being absorbed through the intestinal wall into the circulation. There is a host of medical problems that can do this from the diarrhea-type disorders associated with pancreas disease to types of inflammation of the intestinal wall. Arteriosclerosis or changes in the arteries that supply the intestines can also interfere with their normal function and lead to weight loss.

If the calories get absorbed then it's time to think about the things that can happen to lose calories from the body. High on the list here is diabetes with loss of sugar, and hence calories, in the urine.

Any illness can increase the need for energy in the body cells. This can be a chronic illness like tuberculosis or an acute illness like pneumonia. Or, the thyroid can step up the metabolism like turning up the thermostat and more energy will be used. So, it isn't easy to say why you have lost weight. Because some causes for weight loss are serious medical problems, I believe anyone who has unexplained weight loss needs a good medical examination.

Don't forget that cancer can also be a cause of weight loss. So, don't delay. Go get a good examination to narrow down the possibilities and then if you must, get the proper treatment. I don't want to alarm you since it is probably your diet, but because of cancer, tuberculosis and diabetes as factors in unexplained weight loss, you simply must see a doctor. The same applies to anyone else with unexplained weight loss.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can you please tell me what an occipital headache is, its symptoms and its causes? I heard

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Goosepimple economics for playboy

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Recession, sirs, has hit the Playboy empire, which probably is more vulnerable than any other type of business.

The auto industry and other hard-pressed segments of the economy can survive by cutting expenses. But belt-tightening at Playboy is a different matter.

All those centerfold models, for instance, have nothing to tighten but staples in their navels.

Nevertheless, the management of the far-flung magazine and Bunny Club network is reported to have instituted a $5 million austerity campaign.

Retrenchments will include less extravagant parties at the Playboy mansions in Chicago and Los Angeles, turning off the piped-in music in the elevators and fewer trips in the company's private jet.

Although economy measures of this sort may help offset recent financial reverses, they do not get anywhere near where the real problem is.

Playboy's basic problem is the same as, say, IBM's basic problem, or that of any other non-lubidinal corporation — namely, the high price of energy.

But whereas other firms can hold down fuel costs by using less heat, Playboy is not in a position to lower the thermostat.

Playboy has either got to keep the place warm enough for Bunnies to gambol about at room temperature, or else get itself an entirely new image.

Can you imagine a Bunny in cotton-tailed longjohns?

The energy crisis as respects the photographing of nude centerfolds is even more acute.

I mean, who's going to pay $1.25 to ogle a double-page likeness of Linda Lovelace in thermal underwear.

Playboy's dilemma is not by any means hopeless, however. It simply needs to take a new approach to nudity.

I can visualize a photo spread captioned "Blue is Beautiful." It features nude shots of movie starlets in the early stages of hypothermia.

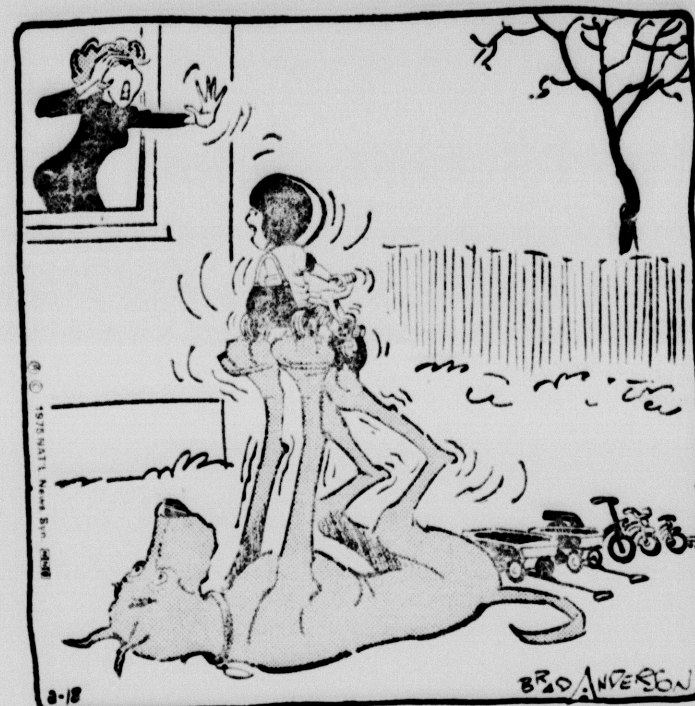

The theme of the layout is that the female body is more erotic when the epidermis has that bluish mottled look that only comes from subnormal temperature.

Elsewhere in the issue is an interview with Burt Reynolds entitled "Chillblains Turn Me On." In the course of the Q. and A., he reveals that he regards goosebumps as the sexiest part of a woman.

"The first thing I do when a girl comes to my apartment in the winter is open a bedroom window," he confides. "When I see a girl shivering in a cross draft, with gooseflesh from head to toe, it's like she has ten thousand little erogenous zones."

After a few specials like that, Playboy could shut down the furnace entirely.

Pomona's Seagren is true Superstar

He's optimistic about chances

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wherever Bob Seagren has gone the past 15 years, he has lugged a whippy, cumbersome 16-foot pole along with him because the thing has become almost as much a part of him as his name, and by this time it might've grown to be a royal pain in the compartment for some people, but not for him.

Bob Seagren (a Pomona High product) has done all right for himself with his pole.

He is the premier pole vaulter in the entire universe, with the 18 feet, 5-3/4 inches he cleared in the Olympic trials at Eugene, Ore., July 2, 1972 still standing as the world outdoor record. When other kids were out playing baseball, football or basketball, Seagren was busy in his backyard seeing how high he could go with a bamboo pole given to him by a man in the local rug store.

Now 28, Bob Seagren has been vaulting since he was a seventh-grader. It's no bother at all for him to carry the pole around with him everywhere he goes. He's used to it by now. Seagren says pole vaulting has been good to him. He still vaults as a professional with the International Track Association and enjoys doing it.

"I'm a competitor," he says. "I like the competition. It's a clean competition. It's you against the bar."

Bob Seagren is competing right now but this happens to be one of the few times he doesn't have his pole with him, mainly because he has no need for it.

Pole vaulting is not one of the 10 events in the Superstars' Championship being held in Rotonda, Fla. Even if it was Seagren wouldn't be involved in it because that's his particular specialty. The way the Superstars' competition is conducted some of the top professional athletes are brought together to compete against each other in any seven events they choose. The only event they can't select is the one in which they specialize. Swimming, rowing, the 100-yard dash, half-mile run, bicycle race, obstacle course and hitting a baseball are among the events.

Bob Seagren won the first Superstars' Championship in 1973, using his $39,700 first prize for a down payment on a five bedroom house in Westwood, Calif. He was runner-up in last year's competition to Kyle Rote, Jr., the young Dallas soccer player.

The finals this year, half of which were held Monday and the other half today, will be carried nationally by ABC-TV this Sunday starting at 11:30 a.m. PDT.

Nobody bothers quoting any odds on the Superstars but Seagren would have to be one of the co-favorites along with Rote and possibly O.J. Simpson, who does a lot of other things smoothly besides carrying a football.

"I think I can win again," says Seagren.

He doesn't say it in a popoff manner. He says it as if he honestly believes it and he makes sure to offer one or two qualifiers.

"To do it," he says, "I almost have to win the rowing, swimming, half-mile and obstacle, and finish no worse than second in the bicycle race. Marty Riessen is very strong in the rowing. The swimming will wind up being between Rote and me. It's free-style. Know what stroke I use? Whatever cuts the water."

Seagren laughed.

"The hundred?" he went on. "O.J. Simpson will win that for sure. He did 9.7 a few weeks ago. What do I do it in? Oh, about 10.6, but I hope to get it down. The half-mile run is mine. Nobody can beat me in that unless they break my leg. Ard Schenk—he's the Dutch speed skater with three Olympic gold medals—is the best there is in the bike race. Baseball hitting is up for grabs among Francis Harris, O.J. Simpson and John Havlicek, and I should win the obstacle race unless maybe there's a runoff between me and O.J."

A bug about staying in good physical shape himself, Seagren says the athlete who looks to be in the best shape of all those he has seen in the Superstars these past two years is John Havlicek of the Boston Celtics.

"He's tops, not only as a competitor, but also as a person. The same for Lou Brock. I've had a chance to speak with Brock and found him quite an individual. No, I'd never say I was a better athlete than he is, but I think I can beat him in a competition like this. Maybe I better not speak so soon. I gotta run against him in the hundred today."

the obstacle course chase, the half mile run and the bike race.

"Look at the way Bob has been training," Rote said. "He has been riding the bikes since last August."

Rote has been training since Dec. 1 for this mini-decathlon, which offers $25,000 for first place, $15,000 for second and $10,000 for third, with a $200 bonus for each point toted on the board.

First place in any one of the 10 events is worth 10 points, with seven for second, four for third, two for fourth and one for fifth.

Others in the superstars finals include Lou Brock of the St. Louis Cardinals, Jack Ham of the Pittsburgh Steelers, Mike Harrover of the Texas Rangers, Franco Harris of the Steelers, John Havlicek of the Boston Celtics, Lawrence McCutcheon of the Los Angeles Rams, skier Hugo Nindl, tennis star Marty Riessen, speed skater Ard Schenk, pole vaulter Steve Smith, and linebacker Phil Villapiano of the Oakland Raiders.

The 1975 finals developed into a showdown between Rote, Seagren and Simpson, each winners of earlier elimination tournaments.

"This year with both Bob and O.J., I know that even if I perform my best, I may not win," said Rote, a 165-pound six-footer, and son of the well-known former pro football star and television sportscaster, Kyle Rote.

Harris not in the chase when he lifted 270 pounds to beat Simpson and Villapiano, who could only manage 260 each. The brawny back also was third best in tennis.

Rote said that in today's bowling and baseball hitting competition "anything can happen."

"But you have to have some natural ability," he said. "I could train for a year and still not take the 100-yard dash."

To better his bowling game, Rote said, "I read a lot of books." To get ready for the swim event, which he won handily, he went to Coach George McMillan at Southern Methodist University.

O.J. holds lead in Superstars

ROTONDA, Fla. (UPI) — Football great O. J. Simpson had a seven and one-half point lead at the start of today's final round of the Superstars' games and was expected to stretch his margin even wider in the 100 yard dash, the opening event.

The running back for the Buffalo Bills picked up first place and 10 points in Monday night's bowling to move ahead of defending champion Kyle Rote Jr., who had held a half-point lead after the first four events.

Simpson had picked up points for two second places and another tie for second. Rote finished fourth in bowling for only two points.

Rote predicted pole vaulter Bob Seagren would win the championship. The athletes were competing today in the 100 yard dash, half mile run, bicycle race, baseball hitting and an obstacle course.

"It's all over," Rote said after the first four contests Monday.

"Bob Seagren has won it already," said the 21-year-old divinity student and 1973 rookie of the year in the North American Soccer League.

Rote picked up a quick 10 points when he beat O.J. Simpson in the tennis finals, first of four opening-day events Monday. But he didn't anticipate that Seagren would defeat the same man in a rowboat.

Rote outswam Seagren, the pole vaulter who won this contest in 1973, and finished the first four events with 20 points.

While Seagren had tallied 17, Simpson had collected 19 1/2 with second places in tennis and rowing and a tie for second in weight lifting.

Rote wasn't worried about Simpson, the Buffalo Bills running back.

He was more concerned about Seagren, who makes a part-time profession of competing in the Superstars competition, which tests athletes outside their own specialties.

"Bob Seagren has won it already because of his 10 points in rowing," Rote said. "O.J. has talent, but Bob has his events picked so well."

He expected Seagren to place high in

The race for the Hacienda League Basketball championship is over. But, with only one week to play, the battle for second place and a berth to the CIF post-season playoffs is a wild one.

Walnut High succeeded in capturing its second consecutive Hacienda League title last week, and now leads the rest of the league by four games.

There are presently three clubs, two from the valley, fighting it out for the second spot in the standings.

Two of the three will meet each other Wednesday afternoon, with the loser figuring to be out of the running for a playoff spot.

Bonita High, sporting a deceiving seasonal record of 10-11, will host Gladstone High in the do-or-die confrontation. Both have 8-4 records in league play.

It will be an especially important assignment for the Bearcats, since they must face Walnut Friday night in the regular season finale.

Meanwhile, Alta Loma (8-4) will try to keep its status as a contender when it hosts last-place Royal Oak Wednesday. Both games are scheduled to begin at 3:15 p.m.

In the other two Hacienda League contests Wednesday, Walnut will host Ontario, and San Dimas will entertain Sierra Vista. Both of those outings are

Fla. Seagren thinks he can win the overall championship again this season.

Cal 500 activity starts Saturday

Qualifying moves up

Activity for the sixth annual California 500 has been moved ahead from next Monday to this Saturday, with a special qualifying session set for Sunday.

Ontario Motor Speedway general manager Bill Wile said that Mario Andretti, one of the world's finest racers and one of 39 USAC drivers entered in the March 9 event, has other racing commitments during the regular weekend of Cal 500 qualifying and requested special sessions. Any other drivers with FIA-licensed conflicts will be eligible to qualify that day as well.

Technical inspection for all entries will start Friday, at 1 p.m., and continue on Saturday with practice starting at noon to 4 p.m. There will be a $2 admission charge, but parking is free.

Sunday's special qualification day program will be sponsored by the J.C. Penney Co. and will begin at noon. An admission of $2 will be charged, however, free admission coupons may be obtained at participating J.C. Penney auto centers.

Andretti, the 1969 Indianapolis 500 winner will take his two-lap qualifying run on the special Sunday program and then take off for South Africa.

ORANGE — Chapman College's "Box" has claimed another victim.

Cal Poly's name is now on the walls at Chapman's ancient and tiny gymnasium after the host Panthers edged the Broncos, 82-81, here Monday night.

Chapman boosted its hopes of landing a berth in the NCAA Division II basketball playoffs by building its season record to 15-8. More important, the Panthers are now a perfect 10-0 at home.

It's easy to understand why.

Chapman plays in a small "box" seating only 300 fans. What's even worse is the size of the court. Instead of the regulation 90 feet, the Chapman court is only 78.6 feet.

The gym is also old. It was built in 1911 and used by Orange High until Chapman purchased the campus in the 1950s.

Added to all this is a vocal crowd made up mostly of Chapman baseball players. They perform a ritual after all wins. After yelling their heads off with where he'll get ready for the March 2 South African Grand Prix.

Andretti will be able to qualify for the front row, but will not be eligible for the pole position.

The three fastest qualifiers during the pole position qualification day will be assured of their starting positions. The rest of the order for the 33-car starting field will be established by the finishes of the cars in the Twin 100s, March 2.

Among the field entered for the first of USAC's Triple Crown events is defending California 500 winner Bobby Unser, who used this race a year ago to launch his successful campaign for the national driving championship.

Other former Cal 500 winners entered are Roger McCluskey and Wally Dallenbach.

Indianapolis 500 winners besides Andretti and Bobby Unser who will be competing in this year's Cal 500 are A.J. Foyt, Gordon Johncock, Al Unser and Johnny Rutherford.

Tickets for the Twin 100s and California 500 are available in advance at the Speedway Box Office and at all Ticketron outlets. For all other race activities, tickets will be sold at the gate only.

Chapman's Box beats Poly

the cry "The Box, The Box", the cheerleaders hang a sheet of the latest victim's name on the wall with the other losers.

"It's kind of hard to get used to this place," was the reaction of Poly coach Don Hagan, "but Chapman has a good team which could play in our league."

Cal State Northridge coach Pete Cassidy, on hand to scout Poly for Friday's important California Collegiate Athletic Association game at Kellough Gym, added, "This was my first trip here and I have never seen a greater home court advantage."

Rich Rider, the young Chapman coach who has turned around the Panthers' program in his two seasons, agrees his club has a big edge playing here.

"The combination of the court and the fans is worth eight to 10 points for us," he said. "We play with a lot more confidence at home."

Even though Poly lost its third in a row to lower its season record to 11-9, Hagan couldn't feel too bad.

His club stayed with the Panthers all the way despite playing without one starter, guard Dick Gross, and having three key players foul out.

Gross, the club's playmaker, didn't suit up because of a twisted ankle. Forward Paul Newton fouled out with 12 minutes to go and he was followed by guard Joe Sills, the club's top scorer, at the 5:22 point and Levin Williams with 4:55 to go.

Despite all that, Poly only lost because Bill Centwell's shot from the side with four seconds to go bounced off the rim.

Poly took an 81-70 lead with a minute to go when freshman guard Tom Lopez scored but Chapman bounced back when Paul Lacher sank a 20-foot jump shot from the side with 43 seconds on the clock.

Lacher, a key performer on Santa Ana College's South Coast Conference championship team the past two years, was the hero for Chapman as the leithander sank 11 of 18 field goals and seven of nine free throws for 29 points plus 13 rebounds.

Bearcats confront a do-or-die situation

By KEVIN CLOE

The race for the Hacienda League Basketball championship is over. But, with only one week to play, the battle for second place and a berth to the CIF post-season playoffs is a wild one.

Walnut High succeeded in capturing its second consecutive Hacienda League title last week, and now leads the rest of the league by four games.

There are presently three clubs, two from the valley, fighting it out for the second spot in the standings.

Two of the three will meet each other Wednesday afternoon, with the loser figuring to be out of the running for a playoff spot.

Meanwhile, Alta Loma (8-4) will try to keep its status as a contender when it hosts last-place Royal Oak Wednesday. Both games are scheduled to begin at 3:15 p.m.

In the other two Hacienda League contests Wednesday, Walnut will host Ontario, and San Dimas will entertain Sierra Vista. Both of those outings are scheduled for 3:15 p.m. opening tipoffs also.

Bonita is one of the youngest teams in the league, with three of its five starters being juniors. Only forward Harold (H.P.) Drake and forward Russ Tyner are seniors.

Junior center Steve Sly has been doing an outstanding job for the Bearcats all season, and is currently the second-leading scorer in the league with an 13.8 average.

Drake is third in the league scoring derby with his 13.9 average.

Bonita got a scare last time it met Gladstone. Drake sustained a twisted leg in the contest, which was won by Bonita, 68-55, and it was at first feared to be very serious.

But H.P. returned to face Walnut in the following game.

The expected starting lineup for the Bearcats will be Drake and Tyner at forwards, Sly at center, and Dale Dyck and Scott Johnson at the guard spots.

Leading the Gladiators will be forward George Platise, who is averaging 14.5 points per game to rank 10th in the league.

Chaffey High faces a very crucial situation tonight. The Tigers, on the verge of dropping out of playoff contention, can brighten up their future considerably when they host league-leading Pacific in Citrus Belt League play.

Chaffey (6-6) is three games out of first place and two out of second with three games remaining on their regular season schedule. Tonight's battle is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m.

When the two clubs met in the first two rounds, Pacific prevailed both times with 48-44 and 62-53 wins.

In other high school action tonight, American Christian visits Western Christian in Academy League play, and Webb hosts CIF I-A's No. 1 ranked Big Bear in Arrowhead League competition. The Webb contest is scheduled for 8 p.m., with the battle of the Christians set for 8 p.m.

Start searching for new ideas

Now is the time to search for some alternatives.

That's what the people in the Pomona high schools' athletic departments are doing right now. They're trying to find ways to save all the team sports at the schools.

The team-sport competition at the three city schools is on the verge of elimination, pending the results of the May 27 election, when the passage of a tax override will be up for vote.

If the override passes, the sports at all the schools will remain as is. If the override fails, then the district's proposed budget cuts call for the elimination of all team sports.

Chances are very good that the override will fail to get the voters' approval.

Ganesha High athletic director Gary Fulkerson, the most outspoken A.D. in the district on the subject, realizes it. So now his mind is working on alternatives.

He discussed the possibility of the sports supporting themselves.

"There's only two sports which have a substantial income," Fulkerson pointed out. "That's basketball and football. If you had a fair season, football could support itself."

"Baseball is an expensive sport," he added, "and there's no income there. Track doesn't cost much because there's not much equipment involved, unless something needs replacing. So, you can see there's only two self-supporting sports."

Another thought would be the student body supporting the teams.

"Most student bodies are very active as far as support is concerned," Fulkerson pointed out. "Over the years, some schools have built up reserve funds coming from profit out of CIF games and other activities. But it's not the same in our case."

"Off-hand, I would estimate less than 40 per cent of the student body buys student body cards here."

Making a profit from playing in the CIF playoffs isn't all that easy. "The CIF takes half of the playoff money," the Ganesha A.D. and head basketball coach noted, "and then the two teams split the other half. That makes it extremely difficult."

Another alternative is hope.

If the tax override doesn't pass, is there a possibility the school board will back down and allow a few of the team sports to compete?

"That depends on the amount of public outcry," Fulkerson said. "But I don't know how much there would be."

"The board has put themselves in a position where they have made a definite stand," he added. "To back out, they would lose all respect. There will be some new board members after the March election, though, and they may change their votes."

"As I said before, this is a political game. The people who are supporting the thing are the local teachers organization and the administration. They are the ones who sold the board on the idea."

Fulkerson still hasn't given up, though.

"There is still one avenue that could be explored," he said. "I see the community as a whole having a stake in this. We'll be losing a lot of kids and a lot of people will be moving."

"I read somewhere that one and a quarter million dollars was being allocated for a beautification program in Pomona. Somehow if we can get a portion of that amount distributed into the athletic department . . ."

It sounds a little like the situation in San Francisco, where the high school sports programs were slated to be halted midway through the basketball program.

The community came to the rescue and donated enough money to allow the schools to participate in the spring sports.

"Maybe that's the only real alternative left . . . that's if the override doesn't pass. If it passes, there's no need to search for any new ideas."

Indiana wraps up Big 10

By United Press International
The Big Ten race is over. Mighty Indiana, the No. 1 ranked team in the nation, ended it with a flourish Monday night, crushing Wisconsin 93-35 to become only the third team to win or tie for the Big Ten basketball title three successive years.

The victory guaranteed Indiana, 14-0 in Big Ten play and 25-0 for the season, at least a tie for first in the conference. The Hoosiers can wrap up the undisputed title by the largest margin ever with a victory over second-place Purdue Saturday night.

Wisconsin, last in the conference, managed to close to within two points early in the first half. But then Indiana exploded, outscoring Wisconsin 38-24 during one stretch for a 48-24 lead. The Hoosiers scored the first eight points of the second half and it was all over.

Scott May led Indiana with 23 points while Kent Benson had 16 and Quinn Buckner 12.

Dale Koehler, Wisconsin's leading scorer, was held to two free throws in the first half and finished with six points.

In other games involving ranked teams Monday night, Alabama (5) downed Louisiana State 80-76. Kentucky (8) ripped Mississippi 108-58. Marquette (9) crushed Butler 77-55. North Carolina (12) downed Virginia Tech 87-75. Notre Dame (18) trounced St. Joseph's (Ind.) 97-81 and Toledo upset South Carolina (20) 78-72.

Leon Douglas scored 25 points and blocked 16 shots as Southeastern Conference leader Alabama defeated Louisiana State, Alabama led by as many as 15 shortly after the half but had to struggle to keep LSU from going ahead in the final minutes. LSU moved to within one point, 70-69, before Johnny Dill and Charles Cleveland combined for eight of Alabama's final 10 points. Glenn Hansen had 29 for LSU.

Freshman Jack Givens, starting his first game, scored 26 points to lead Kentucky past Mississippi in a game marred by eight technical fouls. The win left Kentucky a game behind Alabama in the SEC race.

Bo Ellis had 24 points as Marquette ran its record to 18-3 with a rout of Butler and Adrian Dantley erupted for 36 points and hauled down 14 rebounds as Notre Dame out-muscled St. Joseph's. Mike Larsen scored a career-high 27 points and Jim Brown scored nine of Toledo's last 14 points as the Rockets upset South Carolina.

In other major games, Penn State ripped Colgate 72-56. Mississippi State dumped Georgia 77-71. Tennessee edged Florida 55-54. Richmond topped West Virginia 84-82 in overtime. Vanderbilt beat Auburn 85-78. Detroit stopped Bradley 82-75. Michigan State whipped Iowa 90-78. Michigan shaded Minnesota 87-83 in overtime. Ohio University routed Fairfield 80-61 and Ohio State crushed Northwestern 84-65.

Optimism is springing forth from the KC-Omaha Kings

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Phil Johnson is cautious. But his caution is lessening with each passing day and optimism is beginning to spring forth.

Johnson's Kansas City-Omaha Kings, or Hyphens as they were called in less ebullient times, are the hottest team in the National Basketball Association.

The Kings have won 10 of their last 11 games and four in a row. The lone loss in the streak, was a 92-91 overtime contest on Feb. 8 in Cleveland. The Kings, 31, games behind Chicago in the rugged Midwest Division, have a two-game lead on Detroit and are four ahead of Milwaukee.

Johnson, who was an assistant under Dick Motta at Chicago before replacing Bob Cousy as head coach Nov. 29, 1972, has turned the franchise around. He's done it by blending in young forwards Larry McNeill, Scott Wedman, Ron Behagen and newly acquired Ollie Johnson with the nucleus of the team — center Sam Lacey and guards Nate Archibald and Jimmy Walker.

"The key lies in the fact that every person on the team knows his role," says Johnson. "That and working real hard in practice. You've got to work hard and tell in practice so you can play well together in a game."

Archibald, of course, is THE star of the team, the man fans pay money to see. But Walker and Lacey are more than contributing factors, as are the young forwards.

Johnson says when he first took over the club his No. 1 priority "was to have a team rather than one or two individuals. The key to winning is having players who all feel like they are making a contribution."

"You rank the worst and the best teams in this league and, talent-wise, there is not that much difference. It comes down to things you can't put your finger on — and those factors are teamwork and personalities and getting the players to fit into what you want."

The 6-10 Lacey has been most instrumental, says Johnson. "He's the key to our team. You don't win in this league without a sound center. He gives us rebounding, passing and leadership. His scoring has gone down a little, but his contribution has gone up."

The Kings are in their third year of dividing time between Kansas City and Omaha. The club's board of directors is meeting Feb. 26 to decide whether to continue calling both teams "home" or drop Omaha. Odds are good Omaha will be eliminated before next season, although the Kings are averaging 5,818 per game in the Nebraska city.

The club was 30-49 record last season, dead last in the Midwest. The record now stands at 33-27 and Johnson is uncertain how many victories it will take to make the playoffs, which would be the franchise's first since 1967 when the club was in Cincinnati.

"I said before the season I thought 500 (41 wins) might do it," says Johnson. "But I'm revising my estimate upward. I'd guess 45 now."

Lurking behind Chicago, the Kings and Detroit is Milwaukee — and no one is counting the Bucks out of making a final charge.

"I've got to think they're going to get it together and get a string going," says Johnson.

Should the Kings make the playoffs, their chances of becoming a Cinderella team may be better than most outsiders think. For one thing, the Kings are 14-6 against Midwest teams — Chicago (4-3), Detroit (3-1) and Milwaukee (3-2). And against the two most likely Western Conference contenders from the Pacific Division, Golden State and Seattle, Kansas City-Omaha is 2-1 and 1-1.

The Eastern Conference, of course, is being dominated by Boston, Washington and Buffalo. And all of those teams probably are too much for Johnson's young troops.

"Our guys are talking first place," grins Johnson. "But, realistically, we've got a tough road ahead of us."

But just the prospect of making the playoffs has Kansas City-Omaha giddy. They haven't enjoyed a playoff team since the National Football League's Chiefs lost that memorable Christmas Day sudden-death thriller to Miami in 1971.

If there is a forfeit or forfeits, APC is 4-3 in division play instead of 3-4 and Cal Baptist is 3-5 rather than 6-2.

However, Lancer coach Floyd Evans maintains that he has received no official word on anything from the national office. Evans says he feels the Lancers will be declared ineligible for the playoffs but does not know if Cal Baptist will have to forfeit.

"If there is a forfeit or forfeits, I'd guess 4-3 now," says Evans.

Lurking behind Chicago, the Kings and Detroit is Milwaukee—and no one is counting the Bucks out of making a final charge.

"I've got to think they're going to get it together and get a string going," says Johnson.

Should the Kings make the playoffs, their chances of beating a margin department, winning by an average of 15.3 points per contest. But USC is scoring 88.3 points per game and Stanford allowing 69.5 to lead in offense and defense. Washington is the top rebounding club and Oregon State most accurate from the floor (.487) and free throw line (.755).

Steve Pundolias of Washington State is hitting 22 points a round earlier this year, most whipped the Cal 9-0.

In other SAL action Tuesday, fifth-place Gainesville sixth-place Webb placed Damien will trail last-place Pomona, a third-place Damien will visit to third-place G. All games are scheduled to begin at 2:30 p.m.

Pincay uses plan for riding winner

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — Laffie Pincay held on to stretch-runner Madison Palace as long as he could Monday.

Pincay finally cut loose at the top of the stretch to score a 1 1/4 length triumph over Toujours Pret in Santa Anita's featured $67,100 San Luis Obispo Handicap.

"You have to take hold of this horse right out of the gate or he'll try to go right to the front," said Pincay.

Pincay kept the 7-year-old Madison Palace in last place in the early stages of the 1 1/4 mile turf course event. He found room along the rail at the top of the stretch and won the race going away.

Toujours Pret finished four lengths ahead of third-place Barclay Joy. John Drew was fourth in the field of eight.

Covering the distance in 2:30 1-5, Madison Palace returned $9.50, $4.00 and $3.20. Toujours Pret paid $3.80 and $3.00 and Barclay Joy returned $3.40.

Pincay also won the seventh race aboard Rise High to give him 64 winners for the meeting, more than any other jockey.

John Lambert rode three straight winners on the holiday program, scoring aboard Always A Pleasure, Princess Rain and June's Love in the third, fourth and fifth races.

Santa Anita will be dark today and Wednesday. Racing resumes Thursday with the $30,000-added Santa Catalina Stakes, a mile and one-sixteenth first for non-winners of a $12,500 first place purse. Cute and Deadly, Luck Limey, Looks Impressive, Pistriato and Rock Of Ages are among the entrants.

NFL stars optimistic about WFL

MIAMI (UPI) — Miami Dolphins stars Larry Csonka, Paul Warfield and Jim Kiick have returned from a Toronto meeting with their new employer, Canadian millionaire John Bassett Jr., more optimistic about the chances for survival of the World Football League.

"At this point I would have to say that there will be a World Football League. That's quite a turn-around from 60 days ago," Csonka said.

"I think it's (the WFL) got a pretty good chance of succeeding if it can get by this year," Kiick said.

All three, fullback Csonka, wide receiver Warfield and running back Kiick indicated, however, that if the WFL should fold they might be interested in remaining with the Dolphins in the NFL.

"I want to make sure my children are in a good area," Csonka said.

Warfield said, "There's a possibility, remote as it may now be, that we may be free to come back to the Dolphins."

Kiick said, "I don't have the same feeling as I had two years ago (about the Dolphins). Sure I'd like to play more, but I don't think the money is as good in other places (in the National Football League) as it is in Miami."

The trio signed a $3.5 million contract last year with Bassett's Toronto team which was later moved to Memphis, Tenn.

Jaime Fillol, Gottfried get past 1st foes

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (UPI) — Third-seeded Jaime Fillol of Chile and seventh-seeded Brian Gottfried of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., scored first-round wins in the Michelangelo tennis classic Monday.

Fillol defeated Colin Dibley of Australia, 7-6, 6-2, while Gottfried easily dispatched Jim McManus of Berkeley, Calif., 6-2, 6-2.

Geoff Masters of Australia downed Jay Harvey of San Diego, 6-3, 6-1, and Russia's Alex Metreveli defeated Tomas Koch of Brazil, 6-3, 6-4.

Top-seeded Raul Ramirez, the Mexican Davis Cup hero, and No. 2-seeded Vitas Gerulaitis came down with the flu. Gerulaitis was forced to cancel out of the five-day tournament, while Ramirez' match with Australian Roy Emerson, originally scheduled for Monday, will be played Tuesday.

Australian Rod Laver, who lost a $100,000 match to Jimmy Connors last month, and Pascoe Tanner, a loser to Ramirez in Mexico's Davis Cup win over the U.S., are entered in the tournament. The tourney is the third stop on the tour for the World Championship Tennis' blue group.

In other first-round action, Ross Case of Australia defeated Andrew Pattison of Lakeway, Tex., 7-6, 6-2; Allan Stone of Australia got past Rob Maud of South Africa 6-2, 6-4; and Ray Moore of England rallied to stop Brian Fairlie of New Zealand 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Astros remain cautious

HOUSTON (UPI) — It only manager Preston Gomez could be as successful as General Manager H.B. "Spec" Richardson. That's the Houston Astros' wish one week before spring training begins.

"All the Astros are either signed or agreed—except for one," Richardson said.

Gomez, in keeping with a new Astros' public relations line to downplay predictions of pennants before the first game, was not as certain of victory.

"This winter, people have come up to me and asked 'What do you think happened to the Astros last season?' And I tell them I think two things—the Dodgers and Cincinnati," Gomez said. "We lost 27 ballgames with those two ballclubs (in 1974), and that was our problem."

"We have to be able to beat the contending teams to be in contention."

Gomez was making no predictions Monday but he did run through his pre-season checklist.

He said he had three questionable positions which, depending on their solution in spring training, could determine the Astros' season. Second base, one outfield spot and the fourth starting pitcher are the question marks.

Sports news in brief

BARCELONA, Spain (UPI) — Bjorn Borg of Sweden goes after a second straight WCT tournament victory today as full play was set to get underway at the Barcelona Indoor championships.

Borg won the Green Group competition last week in Bologna, Italy, and already one of his top rivals there has been ousted in Barcelona.

In a five-match opening card Monday night, Australia's Dick Crealy upset Tom Okker of Holland 7-6, 6-4. Okker was seeded third behind Borg and America's Arthur Ashe.

BOCA RATON, Fla. (UPI) — Spanish clay court specialist Manuel Santana was ousted Monday in the opening round of the $25,000 Boca West International tennis tournament by 16-year-old Fort Lauderdale sensation Larry Gottfried.

The determined national 16 indoor champion fought back from a punishing first set to down the former Wimbledon and U.S. Open champ 1-6, 6-1, 6-3.

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Unsuspected and unheralded Hank Jungle of Dayton, Ohio, Monday gave the underdog something to cheer for as he polished off giant-killer Cliff Mayne to win the 33-year bracket singles title in the 1975 National Indoor Tennis Tournament.

Jungle, an officer in the Air Force, broke the fourth-seeded Mayne's service once in the first set to win 6-4, and then he demolished the Lafayette, Calif., player 6-1 in the second to win the title in his first-ever appearance in the national tournament.

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Mark Cox of Great Britain defeated fifth-seeded Bob Lutz 6-4, 6-4 Monday night in the opening round of the $60,000 WCT-Robinhood Tennis Classic.

The unseeded Cox knocked Lutz out of the tournament with a superior serve. He never let Lutz escape the pressure, jumping on the second serve of Lutz in both sets.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia Eagles Monday traded offensive tackle Steve Smith for Atlanta Falcons running back Art Malone.

Malone, 27, played five years with the Atlanta Falcons after graduating from Arizona State University.

VINTON, La. (UPI) — A fire caused by an overloaded electrical circuit destroyed a barn housing 60 horses on the grounds of Delta Downs race track.

All the horses and their handlers were evacuated safely during the fire Monday, but three pet dogs burned to death. Officials estimated the building loss at $45,000.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Victor Niederhoffer defeated Peter Briggs 15-10, 15-3, 15-12 Monday to win the 64th U.S. squash-racquets singles championship.

MOSCOW (UPI) — Olympic gold medalist at Tokyo in 1964 and one-time Soviet and European middleweight boxing champion Valery Popovchenko was killed in an accident Saturday, the Soviet Sport newspaper said today.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Olympic cyclist John Simes III of Closter, N.J., set a world record Monday night in his 24-hour roller-riding endurance run when he passed the 422-mile mark after 11 hours and 13 minutes.

February is the second month of the year — and the shortest. February has 28 days, except in leap years, when it has 29 days. February gets its name from the Latin word "FEBRUARE," which means "to purify" (in English, it became February). In the early Roman calendar February was the last month of the year. During this month, the Romans held religious rites to purify themselves for festivals held at the start of the new year. Later, when Roman emperor Julius Caesar set up a new calendar, he moved the start of the year from March to January. February became the second month. An old story tells though there may be no truth in it, that when Augustus Caesar became the ruler of Rome, he couldn't bear to have Julius Caesar's month (July) longer than the one named after himself. So he stole a day from February to make August 31 days, as long as July! A radio camera globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (the this newspaper), Box 1335, March to January, February (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.
